IRL (IN REEL LIFE)

IT'S A JUNG

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU FOUND YOURSELF IN ZOOTOPIA?

RULE #1: ENJOY THE VIEW

Zootopia is astonishing to behold! It's a modern metropolis populated with civilized animals. Yep, the animals walk and talk like humans do. (Get over it! It's rude to stare, dude.) The city has an advanced transportation system that helps large and small Zootopians go about their day. Hop on and check out the many interesting neighborhoods. Be careful! It's a jungle out here!

RULE #2: TRY TO BLEND IN

This town is big enough for all kinds of predator and prey. They live and work together peacefully plus they dress up and use technology. Best of all, the animals don't eat each other. There's no need to be paranoid.

LE OUT THERE!

FOLLOW THESE RULES IF YOU WANT TO SURVIVE, HUMAN!

RULE #3: DON'T MESS WITH THE LEMMING

Crime boss Mr. Big and his cohorts are always brewing trouble in Zootopia. Thankfully, the Zootopia Police Department (ZPD), a squad of tough rhinos, elephants, and tigers alike, keep this urban jungle peaceful and safe. Word is, new recruit Officer Judy Hopps is a very good cop!

RULE #4: MAKE THE FOLLOWING YOUR BFFS (READ: BEST FUR FRIENDS):

1. MEGA POP STAR GAZELLE – She's a social celebrity who is all about acceptance and equality. A must-follow on social media.

2. YAX – This helpful hippie is a naturalist who likes to walk around "naked." Fur realsies!

3. FLASH – He's the fastest-working clerk at the Department of Mammal Vehicles. Just don't make the mistake of telling him jokes. Man, that will slooooow him down. (Hang...in...there.)

4. NICK WILDE – Charming and fast-talking, this fox is really helpful. Welp, when he has no choice.

5. JUDY HOPPS – This friendly bunny cop is always on the case and eager to make the world a better place.

RULE #5: BELIEVE IN THEIR MANTRA: "IN ZOOTOPIA, ANYONE CAN BE ANYTHING."

Each city dweller, even the smallest ones, has a special skill—rabbits have sharp hearing, foxes have perfect night vision, and sloths are, well, slow but super-reliable—that helps them be good at what they do. In Zootopia, no one will judge you. Just keep your wits about you and you'll be just fine, bro!

OH NO! BATS AND SUPES ARE GOING HEAD-TO THE MEMBERS OF THE JUSTICE LEAGUE HELP

BANG

WONDER WOMAN

WW will use her Lasso of Truth to tie up Bats and Supes together. She'll urge them to discuss their differences or they'll spend the whole day in a tight sitch! Hopefully, both heroes will lighten up, apologize, and promise to be BFFs from now on. Yay!

MARTIAN MANHUNTER

With his mind control powers, MM will convince Bats to talk it out with Supes and explain why he's always such a grouch. Not only that, MM will make TDK give compliments to Supes like "I like your haircut" or "You and Lois are really cute when you're HHWW together."

Martian Nomhunter: Wrenz Serrano Illustrations: Ardie Aquino

IENDS ITION

-HEAD. CHECK OUT HOW THEM PATCH THINGS UP.

AQUAMAN

Aquaman will teach Bats and Supes how to ride a dolphin and take them on an exclusive tour of Atlantis. Maybe they'll have such an amazeballs time together that they will forget they hate each other. Hooray stingray!

FLASH

By using the Speed Force, Flash will time travel to the moment when the two heroes first fought. Then he'll travel back to the present with the past Bats and Supes in order to let them see how mean they've become to each other. Surely, that will convince them that brawlin' is not the answer. #ProblemSolved

CYBORG

Cyborg will create a high-tech gaming console and persuade the two caped crusaders to play a co-op game where they need to team up in order to defeat the baddie. The duo will get so pumped up, they won't notice that they're fist bumping and having fun. Vgames are the solution, people!

GREEN LANTERN

Using his ring, GL will show videos of Bats and Supes' battles against villains like Darkseid, Doomsday, and Brainiac, whom they defeated by teaming up. They'll get teary-eyed reminiscing about their epic collabs and maybe, just maybe, patch things up with a bro hug.

CAPTAIN AMERICA

You can count on the Avengers' resident good boy to always tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—super soldier serum or none.

SIGN UP!

DAUNTLESS

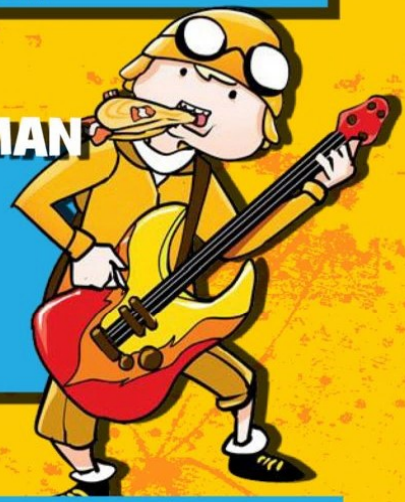
GUMBALL WATTERSON
The Amazing World of Gumball

Sporting a new look, Gumball will prolly get teased by his family, but he'll deffo rock it, just like that time when he rocked his mom's wedding dress—long story.



JAKE THE DOG, ER, HUMAN
Adventure Time

Not being able to shrink, expand, or stretch himself might cramp Jake's style, but this smarty-pants would still be able to hold his own in battle. Oh, and you best believe he'll be shredding with his guitar and playing to sold-out concerts!

ICE BEAR
We Bare Bears

Too bad the We Bare Bears bros wouldn't be able to walk around the city stacked on top of each other anymore if Ice Bear were hooman. But we wouldn't mind so much 'coz he'd be the same quiet, multilingual, yoga-loving, cooking whiz we all know and love. Genius idea: Now that he's a man, he could run a nom-tastic resto biz.

Farmer: Angelica Gutierrez Illustrations: Taga-ilog

IAL FARM

RS LOOK LIKE IF THEY WERE HOOMANS? CHECK IT!

SWAY SWAY
Breadwinners

Human Sway Sway looks a little ri-duck-ulous, don't you think? But we bet he would still be an awesome bread delivery guy who would do anything to get some baked goods up in yo beak!

PONY HEAD
Star vs. the Forces of Evil

Whooaaaaa! It's surreal to see Pony Head with a full body! She would find being human totally rad—she could do all kinds of new dance moves and be able to take all the party selfies she wants. Hey, Pony Head, why don't you go to Earth and pretend to be an exchange student, so you and Star can become real BFFs. (Marco who?)

MICHELANGELO
Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles

Mikey would totes blend in and party with hoomans like nobody's business. He wouldn't have superturtle strength anymore, but he'd still have mad ninja and gaming skillz. Booyakasha!

WHATCHA WATCHIN'?

ANIMO

EZRA (STAR WARS REBELS)

INNER BEAST: Fox
This cunning thief stole tons of stuff from the Galactic Empire and got away with it. Ezra's most def as quick and sly as a fox.

SOOS (GRAVITY FALLS)

INNER BEAST: Panda
Soos is super-friendly and huggable, but can also be a bit awkward, slow, and clumsy at times—like pandas stumbling in the grass. Plus, Soos loves to eat. If he were a panda, he'd be on a veggie diet. Say bye-bye to pizza, Soos!

CHLOE (WE BARE BEARS)

INNER BEAST: Beaver
Chloe, just like a beaver, has poor eyesight. She's also shy and has a hard time opening up to people—kind of like how beavers tend to keep to themselves.

ORPHS

UNLEASH THE INNER BEAST! WE MATCH YOUR FAVORITE TOON PALS WITH THEIR ANIMAL COUNTERPART.

CLARENCE (CLARENCE)

INNER BEAST: Hamster
The daily grind can be boring at times. Not for Clarence! He always finds something to be excited about, thanks to his positivity. He's like a hamster, always eager to explore the world.

FINN (ADVENTURE TIME)

INNER BEAST: Otter
DYK? Otters like to hold paws while they nap, and they have a hidden pocket in their forearms to keep their fave rock (y'know, in case they need a tool to open a shell). Like an otter, Finn is playful and loves hanging out with his buds. Finn also has a trusty backpack where he keeps important stuff. #ReadySteady

BEAST MODE

MAN V

BOXING

ANIMAL: Kangaroo

When they're fighting for dominance or over a female, kangaroos spar like boxers. In order to deal more damage, kangaroos put all their weight on their tail then use both of their feet to kick a rival at full force.

IRL: MANNY "PACMAN" PACQUIAO

Manny may not have the legs of a 'roo, but his punches are just as fast and powerful. He can unleash a flurry of hits on his opponent, and he'll wait for the right moment to strike a straight left or a massive right hook.

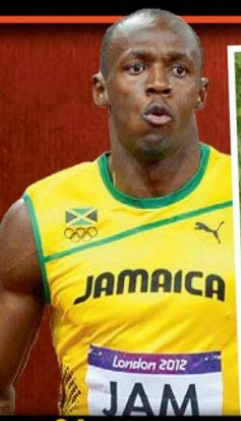
DIVING

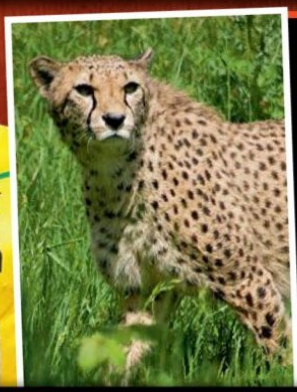
ANIMAL: Dolphin

Dolphins are one of the most graceful and agile swimmers in the ocean. They're excellent at spyhopping, a behavior where they expose their head above the water in order to take a good look at their surroundings.

IRL: MICHAEL PHELPS

At the 2016 Arena Pro Swim Series, Michael Phelps won the 200 IM (individual medley) competition by using a dolphin kick technique that he's been developing. Are you really hooman, Michael?





RUNNING

ANIMAL: Cheetah

Cheetahs can run as fast as 60 miles per hour—perfect for chasing prey in the wild. They are faster than humans, natch, but just like us, they need to rest for at least 30 minutes after a long sprint. #LimitedPower #Recharge

IRL: USAIN BOLT

He may not be The Flash, but IRL, Usain Bolt is arguably the fastest man alive. He has six Olympic gold medals in running events and is an 11-time World Champ. He finished a 100-meter dash in 9.58 seconds! If only we could run away from homework as fast as he could.

WILD

LOOK, BROS! YOUR FAVE ATHLETES HAVE GOT SOME MAD ANIMAL INSTINCTS. GAME ON!

BASKETBALL

ANIMAL: Monkey

Monkeys use their long arms to swing from vine to vine and grab noms on trees. Their long limbs are perfect for bball. They can also jump really high!

IRL: LEBRON JAMES

When LBJ dunks, he uses his long arms and powerful legs to his advantage. This king of the hardcourt would prolly be an ace tree-climber!

GYMNASTICS

ANIMAL: Pufferfish

A pufferfish has a very flexible and elastic stomach. Whenever it's frightened, it fills its stomach with air and water until it becomes a huge ball so that predators won't be able to eat it. How's that for a defense?

IRL: SIMONE BILES

This gymnast is a three-time U.S. Champ and three-time World Champ who is super-flexible. We're srsly doubting if she has any bones in her bod! Her signature Double Layout Half move is unbelievably amazing, we can't even.

WRESTLING

ANIMAL: Bear

Real wild bears (not the cute and cool bros from We Bare Bears) are very dangerous. They use their sharp claws and strength to take down their opponents. Call yourself lucky if you survive a bear attack!

IRL: BIG SHOW

Big Show is massive, powerful, and intimidating, just like a grizzly. What he lacks in speed, he more than makes up for in strength. He has already KO'd many WWE Superstars using his finishing move, the K.O. Punch. Sweet dreams, Brock Lesnar, Roman Reigns, and John Cena!

THE STREET BEAST

A creepy case of twisted metal.

On his way home from school, Freddy Felizimo walked by Mr. Asuncion's house. The boy didn't like his new neighbor but he smiled and waved at the old man, who was cleaning his flame-red sports car on the street. Mr. Asuncion didn't even try to hide his dislike for Freddy, grunting at the 10-year-old boy as he continued to wax his prized vehicle.

Freddy paid no mind to the surly man and walked on. But after a few steps, he looked back and saw Mr. Asuncion gently patting the roof of his car. "There you go, Myrtle. All nice and shiny," the boy heard him say to the car before his neighbor packed up his cleaning tools and went inside the house.

Once his neighbor was out of sight, Freddy quickly turned around and walked toward the vehicle. He had heard stories about it. Mr. Asuncion lost his wife in a terrible accident in that car. Inconsolable, he started to believe that his wife's spirit possessed the car, constantly repairing it to look brand new so she could still be with him. Freddy knew it couldn't be true, but he was curious. Now was the perfect time to take a closer look at the car because Mr. Asuncion never lets anyone come near it.

Freddy couldn't help but admire how beautiful it was. The paint job was perfect, the windows were shiny—it's amazing how the car looked spotless, nary a scratch anywhere! Mr. Asuncion may be a weirdo, but the old man has taste, he thought to himself.

Freddy ran his fingers over the car's hood. It was too late when he realized that the lock of his metal watch had loosened up. The watch fell on the hood with a thud and slowly slid off to the ground. To Freddy's horror, he noticed a long scratch on the shiny red paint where his watch had fallen.

The boy looked around to check if anyone saw him. Nobody saw me, so Mr. Asuncion won't know who scratched his car. Freddy grabbed his watch, slowly inched away from the car, then sprinted to his house. When he turned a block, he suddenly heard a car slowly driving behind him. It was Mr. Asuncion's sports car.

Freddy wasn't sure if he was being followed. He didn't want to look guilty so he just walked faster. As he turned another corner, the car made the same turn. His heart beating faster, Freddy quickened his pace. He could hear the car accelerating behind him; its engine revving.

Freddy ran as fast as he could. He was sure that the sports car was chasing him. The boy yelled for help. Mr. Calixto heard Freddy's screams and rushed out of his house to see what was going on. Suddenly, the car changed direction and charged at him. Mr. Calixto was almost run over had he not leapt into his porch and scrambled back inside his house.

While the car was distracted, Freddy quickly ran into a narrow alleyway. He slowed down, trying to catch his breath. He had not recovered when he heard the car's engine revving violently behind him.

"Just you try to fit in this narrow alley, you crazy old man!" Freddy screamed. Without warning, it went full speed and crashed through the narrow opening. It was trying to get in. The hood started to crumple. Freddy heard a loud and long screech as the car moved forward; its side doors were scraping the concrete walls.

Freddy could not believe that the car was dead set on cornering him. He looked behind him and saw nothing but a wall. He was trapped. Freddy looked at the car again and realized that no one was behind the wheel.

The car inched its way toward Freddy. While it was closing in on the terrified boy, its mangled chassis started to morph into giant jaws with jagged metal teeth. Freddy screamed in horror as wires and tubes from under the car's hood wrapped themselves around his legs and pulled him into the sports car's metal maw.

Then silence.

After a few minutes, the red sports car quietly backed up into the street where Mr. Asuncion was waiting. The car stopped in front of him then started to repair itself. After a few seconds, the car looked as if nothing happened. Mr. Asuncion then climbed inside the car and started to drive.

"I told you to always wait until dark, Myrtle!" he growled, adding, "And you have to let me choose whom you can take! People are gonna ask questions about that boy when they find out that he's gone missing." He sighed then stroked the dashboard of his car. "It's okay, my love. But I think we're going to have to move towns again."

THE KZ ANIMAL MAGNA CARTA

HERE'S A TOTES LEGIT PLEDGE TO PROTECT THE ANIMAL KINGDOM. SIGN YOUR NAME BELOW AS A PROMISE TO BE A WARRIOR FOR OUR BEASTLY BUDS!

HEAR YE, HEAR YE!

Nary of the creatures from the animal kingdom, whether big or small, furry, feathered, or scaly shall be subjected to any form of physical or emotional abuse. Henceforth, the use of elephant tusks for ivory and alligator skins for fashion accessories will be deemed cruel and criminal in nature. Remember, the furs of majestic predators such as lions and tigers will only be theirs to wear. Likewise, anyone who harms dogs and cats, for no other purpose than being a bully, will be shunned throughout the land (or possibly even banished to a no-playtime zone). Ill-equipped zoos and aquariums that cage wild beasts meant to roam free, are to liberate each species into the jungles and oceans where they truly belong...or else K-LEB and his squad will do it for them! Hunting, dynamite fishing, and taxidermy will be punishable by grounding, meaning no vgames for these pesky perpetrators. Moreover, let us control our consumption of bacon (even tho it can be oh so yummy) by asking Mom and Dad to do the groceries wisely. As members of the human race, we will strive to be stewards of Mother Nature by being kind, caring, and thoughtful to our furry friends. It is our responsibility as planet Earth's protectors to ensure that each living thing gets a fair chance at survival. Let us be responsible and stop animal extinction before it's too late. Responsibility starts with awareness and education, but let's always take to heart that we should start with ourselves. The future of the world depends on it, yo!

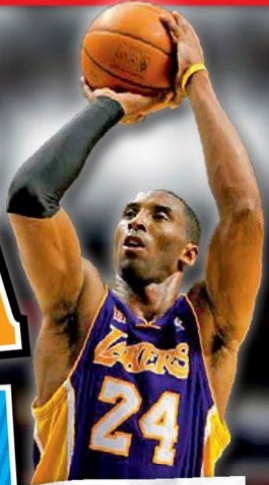
LAST HURRAH FOR THE MAMBA



We granted the wish of one of the biggest Kobe Bryant fans, if not THE biggest Black Mamba fan we know—K-LEB—to write a thank-you letter to his bball idol and publish it in K-Zone.

Dear Kobe,

When you announced that this was going to be your last season, I cried panda tears, bruh. I can't imagine the Lakers without you just like I can't imagine the Spurs without Duncan, the Mavericks without Nowitzki, and K-Zone without me.

You've had a lot of amazeballs moments in your 19-year NBA career. Can't you postpone your retirement plans till you reach the big 2-0? I really can't imagine the Lakers having a 0-82 win-loss record next season. Pretty please?

Anyhow, my all-time fave Kobe moment was when you scored 81 points against the Raptors in 2006. You made 26 points during the first half, then you went bonkers during the second half by scoring 55 more points. It was the Kobe Bryant Show!

You totes personify greatness, dude. The way I personify awesomeness. Your fans in China even made a giant snow portrait as a tribute to you, man! Wow! I wish my peeps would do that for me, too. (hint, hint) I hope they make me a bacon sculpture with the title "Coolest 'Bot Ever!"

Kobe, I'll surely miss your fadeaway jumpers and 360° dunks. For me, you're deffo the next MJ23. You da real MVP, KB24! Thanks for the memories! It's been real! Peace out! Keep ballin'!

LIFE HACK

ANIMAL HACK

BEARS GONE BAD

You don't want a close encounter with a wild bear, trust. They are fast and very powerful (nope, they're not the cuddly type). If you see a bear that's way too close for comfort, remain calm, stay in place, and don't make eye contact. Animal experts suggest speaking calmly to it in order to let it know that you're human, not another animal. Then slowly back away from the bear.

SLITHERING SNAKES

Watch your step, fam! These reptiles attack when provoked or cornered, so when you encounter a snake, ssslowly slither, er, walk away from it, and let it be. No sudden movements, yo!

RAGING DOGS

If an angry canine looks like it's about to charge, don't split! It's very difficult to outrun a dog. Stay cool and don't make eye contact. Try to send it chill cues: yawn, lick your lips, or look from side-to-side. Doing these simple actions sends signals to the dog that you're not a threat and just might calm Fido.

STINGING BEES

A beehive may look like a piñata but don't dare destroy it unless you're ready for some stinging pain! If a swarm of bees is after you, make like Quicksilver and run! Have they caught up? Pull your shirt over your face while running for cover (Watch out for obstacles!). Getting stung on the chest and stomach is less serious than getting stung on the face. If you do get stung, see a doctor right away.

CKS ATTACK

PEOPLE SHOULD RESPECT AN ANIMAL'S PERSONAL SPACE AND NEVER EVER TEASE OR TAUNT IT, ESPECIALLY WHEN IT'S A WILD CREATURE. HERE ARE SOME TOP TIPS FOR DEALING WITH UNPREDICTABLE CRITTERS.

ATTACK OF THE ANTS

Whip out some spices to temporarily keep these insects away. Sprinkle cinnamon powder in cracks or leave a few bay leaves, mint leaves, black peppers, or garlic cloves around the areas where you usually see them. Make things sour for these sweet soldiers by dousing their trail with white vinegar. If all else fails, call Ant-Man!

SPIDEY SITCH

Relax, fam, your friendly neighborhood spider is prolly harmless. A majority of the 40,000 types of spiders around the world aren't poisonous, so unless you live somewhere exotic like the Australian Outback or the Amazon Rainforest, that creepy crawly in your shower is (relatively) totes cool. The best thing to do is just leave it alone, or ask an adult to catch it and carefully release it outside.

GECKOUTTA HERE

A tokay gecko or tuko is pretty harmless, but when you happen to overstep on its territory, it might attack. A tuko's bite is painful and its grip is legendary (Read: It's super tight, yo!). So whatever you do, don't go gecko-hunting when you hear them making "tu-ko tu-ko" sounds. Actually, they're good to have around the house because they eat bugs and cockroaches!

CREEPY COCKROACHES

They're fast, dirty, and—EEEP!—can fly. Yep, cockroaches are the worst. So when you spot one, stomp on it like ya mean it! 'Coz if you don't, that pest could creep up on you while you're sleeping—and that, my friend, is just seriously gross. shudders

Do not pet the animals. Keep your paws to yourself, for your safety and theirs.

Hippos have a weird pooping ritual: As the poop comes out of a hippo's butt, the animal rapidly swishes its tail to brush away the mess. Clear out if ya don't want anything gross to land on you!

Think twice about hanging out too long under a tree, dude.

JAW-DROPPING COMFORT

Here's your chance to get up close and personal with wild creatures like crocs and killer whales! Welp, sorta. South African designer Porky Hefer created these slick hanging seats as part of his Monster Deliciosa collection. We bet the anglerfish seat is a great reading nook! Rest assured, these rawrsome art installations won't gobble you up.

SOMETHIN' FISHY

Square teabags are boring. Thanks to design students from Saint John's University in Taipei, drinking tea became a little more interesting. They created cool goldfish-shaped teabags! You can make each bag "swim" by dragging the string. We suggest you use a huge mug for maximum fun factor.

STOLEN SHOT

Naruto (named after the anime character), a macaque monkey whose selfies went viral last year, does not own the copyright to his awesomesauce photos. U.S. Copyright Office said that anything "produced by nature, animals, or plants are not under human copyright laws, unless the President of the country from where the picture was taken says so." Aww, man! Naruto could have had all the bananas in the world if peeps paid him every time they used his selfies.

NO CHILL!

ICE CREAM FEVER BEGAN 4000 YEARS AGO AND WON'T GO COLD ANYTIME SOON.

2000 B.C.

For dessert, the Chinese elite enjoyed a soft paste of boiled rice, spices, and milk. The mixture was then packed in snow to solidify.

FRUIT SORBET HACK:

1. How to make a popsicle sorbet: Blend frozen raspberries, strawberries, and mangoes with orange juice.

2. Pour the mixture into popsicle molds and pop them in the freezer.

- If you add MILK, it becomes a SHERBET.
- If you want to add YOGURT instead—voila!—you get FRO-YO!

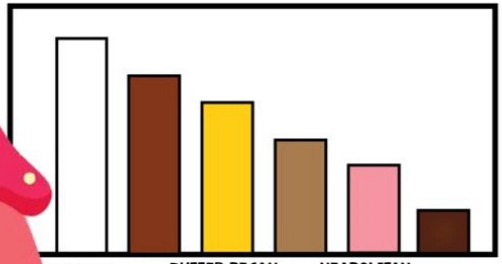
The Most Popular Ice Cream Flavors

(according to the INTERNATIONAL ICE CREAM ASSOCIATION)



FAVORITE TOPPINGS

- Hot fudge
- Sprinkles
- Nuts

ICE CREAM-MAKING PROCESSES

PASTEURIZATION
The ingredients are mixed together and heated to a high temperature in order to kill off harmful bacteria.

HOMOGENIZATION
The fat globules in milk and cream are broken down, so the ice cream will be smoother, will whip better, and won't melt easily.

FLAVOR MATURATION

FREEZING
The mix is then pumped through a special barrel freezer that whips air into it. Up to half the volume of ice cream is air. (Without it, ice cream would be just like a frozen ice cube!) Fruits, nuts, or biscuit bits are then added to the semi-frozen mixture.

PACKAGING
The ice cream is then packaged and put into a blast freezer at -30°C to -40°C to make it frozen. #LetItGo (WUT.)

WHAT'S THE DIFF?

ICE CREAM is a semi-frozen mixture of cream, milk, sugar, and sometimes eggs.

GELATO has less cream and is churned slooowly, so less air is incorporated into the mixture. That's why it's super creamy!

SHERBET contains 1 to 2% butterfat and is lighter than ice cream.

FROZEN YOGURT is made with yogurt instead of milk. It has a tart flavor due to bacteria cultures in the yogurt.

SORBET is a delicious water-based dessert made with fresh fruit. Like gelato, it originated in Italy. Mamma mia!

MILKFAT/CREAM CONTENT OF VARIOUS FROZEN DESSERTS:

ICE CREAM	GELATO	SHERBET

QUICK DRAW

HOW TO DRAW NICK WILDE

STEP 1: WILDE AT HEART

Lightly sketch the form of Nick Wilde using a pencil. His head is shaped like a light bulb, his ears are triangular, and his body is cone-shaped. Draw his arms and legs using rectangles then use semi-circles for his tail and feet. Add crosshairs on his head to mark the eyeline and center of his face.

STEP 2: HEAD OF THE PACK

Draw a pair of eyes along the eyeline using semi-circles then add his eyebrows. Next, draw Nick's oval-shaped nose and sketch his mouth, ears, and neck. Add lines around the areas of his face for his chin.

STEP 3: WILD STYLE

Draw small rectangles below his neck for the shirt collar. Next, draw his polo shirt and striped tie. Use rectangles for his sleeves and add a few lines for the folds.

STEP 4: LOOKING FURRY GOOD

Add a few short lines on his arms for his fur and a pair of rectangles for his pants. Then draw small semi-circles at the bottom of his pants for his feet and small oblongs for his claws.

*Artist based his drawing on the character from Zootopia

STEP 5: TAIL IT LIKE IT IS!

Add details to Nick's bushy tail by drawing short lines and small V's around it.

STEP 6: WELCOME TO ZOOTOPIA!

Trace over all your pencil marks using a pen. Once the ink has dried completely, erase all your pencil marks and add color. Nick's body and tail are orange, while the area around his mouth, neck, and ears are light brown. His polo shirt is yellow green, his tie is black with violet stripes, and his pants are dark brown. Use different shades of color to add depth to your art. You're done, son! Now what does the fox say? Lolz!

Street Fighter V's combat style is built around the V-System, a series of super-powered abilities that you can use once your character's power meter is full. Here's a quick rundown of commands that'll help lead the way to what else? Victory!

V-TRIGGER

Command: Press heavy punch and kick buttons at the same time
What it does: The effect is different for each character. In V-Trigger Mode, Chun-li can gain extra hits every time she attacks, while Necalli can transform into a different character.

V-SKILL

Command: Press medium punch and kick buttons at the same time
What it does: Using this mode helps fill up your V-Gauge. Like V-Trigger, V-Skill's effect is different for each character. Depending on the character you select, you can parry attacks, absorb projectiles, or even increase your attack power.

V-REVERSAL

Command: Press all three punches or kicks, depending on the character
What it does: Tired of constantly blocking attacks? Use V-Reversal in order to pull away from your enemy's barrage of hits and move to safety. FYI: Performing this command will use up one segment from your V-Gauge.

ALL-OUT BRAWL OUT CHECKLIST

Are you a Street Fighter noob? These top tips will help ya kick and punch your way to the top, bruh!

- ☐ Block, Baby, Block: We know you're itching to land those combos but patience, young grasshopper. A good defense trumps an unguarded offensive strike.
- ☐ Ambidextrous Player: The directional buttons of your character's set of moves is based on the position of your character on the screen. If your character is on the right side, swipe the directional buttons clockwise. If your character is on the left, swipe counterclockwise. Practice playing on both sides of the screen so you can fight properly on either side.
- ☐ Chunk On: Learn long combos faster by "chunking," a process where you practice portions of a long combo one at a time then put them all together once you've learned all the portions.
- ☐ Combo Meal: Master your character's basic moves like the Hadouken before moving on to dealing more complicated attacks.
- ☐ Counter Strike: What's better than plain ol' blocking? Counter-attacking! You can interrupt your rival's barrage of attacks and land a hit, too. This technique is useful when Player 2 is on the offensive.

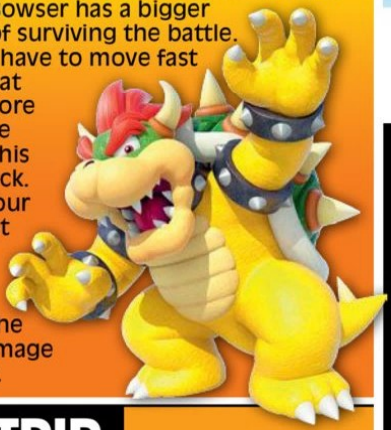
Rocky Brillo

In Super Smash Bros, how do I defeat Master Core at intensity 9.0?

Hi, Rocky! Play as Bowser and arm him with one of each type of equipment. Remember to equip an HP-healing item so that Bowser has a bigger chance of surviving the battle. You also have to move fast and defeat Master Core before he releases his final attack. Use all your strongest (and fastest) attacks to deal the most damage instantly.



TIP TRIP

K-Zoner Marrick Curia has a tip for all you Real Steel: World Robot Boxing players!

Make scrap metal out of Robot Boxing Superstar Zeus by using a combination of non-stop attacks. Spam him with quick punches, then use a special attack once the Special Move bar, which is below the HP bar, is full. Be patient, bro! Always wait for your Special Move bar to fill up before using it, so you can deal the most powerful attacks.

READER REVIEW

DYK? You can never win in Smash Hit. The developers of this game fixed the gameplay to make sure that a player will eventually run out of balls to throw. #Evil

KZer Jericho Louis Grande tells us why he thinks Smash Hit is, well, a smash hit.

GAMEPLAY
"Essentially, it's a fighting game where you throw balls in order to hit pieces of crystals or glass that are coming at you."

GRAPHICS
"The graphics can be adjusted to your preference. If your gadget can't handle high-quality graphics, you can switch it to low or medium quality."

REPLAY
"You can play as a single player in the Classic Mode, which is the original game. You can play a lot of games in Zen Mode while Mayhem Mode lets you play against bosses. There is also a multiplayer option where you can play versus or co-op."

SOUND
"Hearing the glass and crystals break is super-awesome!"

OVERALL
"This is the coolest smashing game ever. It's so fun to play!"

IN THE BAG

Buy a frog wallet (or a wallet that looks like a frog). Hide any straps or strings jutting out inside it then smother the outside with lots of petroleum jelly. Now put the slimy thing inside your bro's schoolbag. He'll be squealing in shock once he rummages through his bag and feels something icky!

PRANKS

MIDNIGHT SNACK ATTACK

Buy an angry-looking fake lizard at a toy store, put it inside an empty pint of ice cream with its face looking up, and place your little surprise inside the freezer. Whoever has been sneakily getting some ice cream will have the shock of his life.

HERE, KITTY-KITTY

Download an audio recording of a kitten on your smartphone or tablet then hide your gadget somewhere in the living room. Once people are in the room watching T.V. or relaxing, stealthily play the recording in a loop. They'll go cray looking for the lost kitty. Haha! Gotcha!
